Vichy, France, July 29 (AP)—French Vice Premier Admiral Jean Darlan and Japanese Ambassador Sotomatsu Kato signed a protocol for "common defense of French Indo-China" today, an official announcement said.

The pact contained no mention of specific measures to be taken, but bound the two governments to military cooperation so long as circumstances demand. The signing ceremony took place in Darlan's private office in the Hotel Du Parc.

Saigon, French Indo-China, July 29 (AP)—Japanese armed forces, the first of 40,000 expected, today occupied Camranh naval base on the east coast of Indo-China.

40,000 Troops

Guarded by warships, a fleet of transports slipped into Camranh Bay and the Japanese occupation of southern Indo-China went into high gear as troops swarmed ashore. At Hanoi, it was officially announced that 40,000 troops would be stationed in southern Indo-China.

The base, situated within airplane range of the British stations at Singapore and Hongkong, boasts two splendid harbors and ideal natural defenses in the mountains which encircle it.

Occupation of Camranh followed by 24 hours the arrival of Japanese forces at two other east coast bases in southern Indo-China—Tourane and Haiphong.

(Haiphong is about 200 airline miles northeast of Saigon and Tourane is 300 miles in a direct line up the Annam coast.)

Japanese and French planes roared overhead in a prelude to the landing of the main Japanese force tomorrow in Saigon.

Troopships with a warship escort were steaming for St. Jacques, below Saigon, where they will proceed up-river to Saigon.

Saigon will be the main gateway through which the Japanese will fan out to occupy other posts in Cochinchina and Cambodia. Garrison will be stationed at Baria on the road to St. Jacques and Mytho southwest of Saigon, while Cambodian cities to be occupied include Phnom-Penh, Siemreap and Hatien on the Gulf of Siam.

Dispatches from Hanoi said Japanese warplanes soon would be stationed at eight strategic bases dominating the eastern coast of Indo-China, the Thailand border and the upper half of the Gulf of Siam.

Five of these, an official announcement disclosed, are situated on the east coast, starting with Tourane and running southward as follows: Haiphong, near Camranh Bay; Bienhoa, 20 miles north of Saigon; Tansonninh, which is Saigon's airfield, and Soctrang, eight miles south of Saigon.

Campaign Without Water

Nazi Soldiers Beg and Bribe for Water; Cannot Wash; Drinking Supply Is Scarce

Hans Huffky, a reporter in one of the German army's propaganda companies known as "F.K.S." has produced one of the most descriptive pieces concerning the soldier's plight and thought on the Russian battlefield that has come to the attention of American correspondents in Berlin.

By HANS HUFFKY
[By the Associated Press]

With the German Army on the Eastern Front, July 29—This was the driest of all wars.

That is because it leads past too few water mains, fewer than in Poland and fewer than in France. Flap down your dust-coated eyelashes, comrade, and think back—think of France. Wasn't that then one vast water fountain compared with this country?

Yesterday we passed a village as we rolled along the marching route of our panzers. Four hours before we had located it on our map: Now it must still be 10 kilometers away, now only five, now just one more—there it was, the village, there was the first house and there, too, was the first bucket-well.

Down deep with the pump—up it came with mire and mud. On to the next well. It yielded only a brownish broth.

No Water to Wash

The wells already had been drawn dry by our comrades, so once again we cannot wash ourselves tonight. Wash? Why for heaven's sake, we haven't the faintest intention of washing, there isn't water for that. All we want is to just dip our hands once, just to cool our burned brows and necks a bit.

This morning we were to drive through the city of "M" (obviously Minsk). We found it out. There must be so and so many hydrants, for drinking, for cooking, for washing, for filling our field flasks.

When we reached "M" we didn't come to "M" for it is something that doesn't exist anymore and you can't come to it. We reached "M" only according to our maps. For "M" was in reality nothing but a bit of smoldering landscape. I say landscape because the chimneys which remained standing between the wooden houses looked from afar like trees. The fleeing Soviet had

While no speaking program is planned efforts are being made to have the Junior American Legion Drum Corps present when the trucks leave for Harrisburg.

The pile of aluminum at the Engine House on East Middle street continues to grow and now is about eight feet high and measures about 21 feet across the base.

Chief of Police H. S. Roberts of Littlestown brought that community's contribution to Gettysburg this morning. The aluminum which filled a dump truck to which sideboards had been added weighed 280 pounds. Firemen estimated today that there is probably a ton or a ton and a half of the metal in the big heap on the engine house floor.

Towns To Hear From

Abbottstown, East Berlin, Biglerville, York Springs, Irishtown and Centennial are among the county towns yet to add their collections to the metal assembled here.

Meanwhile persons who were missed in the collection, rural residents who were not solicited and persons who have additional contributions are being urged to take their aluminum to the engine house.

Heat Wave Broken; Three Towns Start To Conserve Water

Mercury Sets 38-Year Record for July 28 By Skyrocketing to 101 Degrees; Monday Evening Is Hottest Of Year With Reading of 76

After setting an all-time high record for July 28 on Monday with a high of 101 degrees, also the highest reading taken here this year, the heat wave broke today and sent the mercury into the comfortable, low eighties. At 1 o'clock this afternoon the temperature was 81 degrees.

Official Gettysburg weather records in the possession of Doctor Henry Stewart, local observer, show that never since complete records were begun here in 1903 has a reading of 101 degrees been taken here on a July 28.

Monday night was the hottest this year with a low reading of 76 degrees. Thundershowers in surrounding sections and an overcast sky today brought relief from the heat wave that kept Gettysburgians sweltering in temperatures above 90 degrees since late last week.

[By the Associated Press]

Violent electrical storms brought costly relief to some sections of heat seared eastern Pennsylvania today.

Most central and western sections, however, remained in the grip of a torrid wave which has claimed at least a dozen lives. Forecasts of showers held out hope of a break.

Philadelphia bore the brunt of the storms, zigzagging lightning striking trolley cars, a power plant, transformers, barns, houses and starting more than a score of fires in the city's northeast. Boils injured three persons.

Torrential rains lashed by winds reaching 60 miles an hour in gusts flooded several sections of the city. Roofs were ripped from barns and small boats from their moorings in the Delaware River. Telephone and power lines were torn down. The temperature dropped from 96.9 degrees to 72 in two and a half hours.

Huge Trees Uprooted

Heavy property damage was reported in the Williamsport vicinity. Wind of cyclonic proportions ripped off a section of the roof at the C. A. Reed Company Paper Novelty plant, rain pouring in and damaging goods on three floors. A barn on one farm was wrecked, a silo on another. Trees, some as tall as 80 feet, were pulled out of the ground, some falling on automobiles.

State motor police headed some 30 searchers in woods near Bernice for David Milheim, 74-year-old retired

Russia Says Tide Turning Against Nazis

Moscow, July 29 (AP)—The Russians declared today the tide of war was turning in their favor on land, sea and air, reported Nazi drives cracking up against an unyielding Red army defense and said strongly-guarded Moscow had stood off its sixteenth night air raid.

In the air attack last night, after a night of respite from the mass raids, the Russians said their night fighters and anti-aircraft guns downed nine raiders and kept all but a few of 140 to 150 attacking planes from reaching the city.

Fires were reported started in some residential districts and there were some casualties.

Stop Nazi Push

Overnight, the Soviet information bureau reported, fighting continued in the long-contested Nevel-Smolensk sector and on the Zhitomir front in the Ukraine. The communiqué said there were no operations of importance elsewhere on the battlefield.

Indications that the Russians were swinging more and more to the offensive were seen in a communiqué on yesterday's fighting which reported the big German pushes toward Moscow and Kiev stopped.

LITTLESTOWN CHURCH WILL BUILD ANNEX

At a congregational meeting at St. John's Lutheran Church, Littlestown, it was decided by an overwhelming vote to build an addition to the church to be used as a Sunday School room. The new addition will be one story with basement at an estimated cost of $10,000 to $12,000. It will be built at the rear adjoining the north side of the church.

Starting at the large memorial window on the north side of the church, it will connect with the primary room. A large social room and modern kitchen will be built in the basement. The entire first floor will be used as a Sunday School room. The addition will be of brick and will conform to the church architecture.

The addition has been an urgent need for some years at St. John's as the Sunday School now occupies the entire church auditorium, choir, and the room originally built for the Sunday School. The church has a membership of about 560, while the Sunday School enrollment is well over 300.

The building committee is composed of J. Ray Reindollar, Malcolm Hess and Kenneth Miller from the church council; D. W. Shriver, Samuel E. Renner and W. E. Mackley, secretary, from the Sunday School. The Rev. Kenneth D. James and Superintendent Paul E. King are ex-officio members.

The final plans will be finished in about two weeks. The committee will be ask for bids and the actual construction will begin in the early future.

Campaign Without Water

Nazi Soldiers Beg and Bribe for Water; Cannot Wash; Drinking Supply Is Scarce

Hans Huffzky, a reporter in one of the German army's propaganda companies known as "PKS," has produced one of the most descriptive pieces concerning the soldier's plight and thought that has come to the attention of American correspondents in Berlin.

By HANS HUFFZKY [By the Associated Press]

With the German Army on the Eastern Front, July 29—This was the driest of all wars.

That is because it leads past too few water mains, fewer than in Poland and fewer than in France.

Plap down your dust-coated eyelashes, comrade, and think back—think of France: Wasn't that then one vast water fountain compared with this country?

Yesterday we passed a village as we rolled along the marching route of our panzers. Four hours before we had located it on our map: Now it must still be 10 kilometers away, now only five, now just one more—there it was, the village, there was the first house and there, too, was the first bucket-well.

Down deep with the pail—up it came with mire and mud. On to the next well it yielded only a brownish broth.

No Water to Wash

The wells already had been drawn dry by our comrades, so once again we cannot wash ourselves tonight. Wash? Why for heaven's sake, we haven't the faintest intention of washing, there isn't water for that. All we want is to just dip our hands once, just to cool our burned brows and necks a bit.

This morning we were to drive through the city of "M" (obviously Minsk). We figured it out: There must be so and so many hydrants, for drinking, for cooking, for washing, for filling our field flasks.

When we reached "M" we didn't come to "M." for it is something that doesn't exist anymore and you can't come to it. We reached "M" only according to our maps. For "M" was in reality nothing but a bit of smoldering landscape. I say landscape because the chimneys, which remained standing between the wooden houses looked from afar like trees. The fleeing Soviet had

H. EARL PITZER OFFERS TRUCKS TO HAUL METAL

Aluminum Collection In County To Be Transported Free

Judge W. C. Sheely, general chairman in Adams County for the collection of aluminum to be used for defense purposes, announced today that H. Earl Pitzer, Biglerville, has offered his trucks for the hauling of aluminum from the fire engine house to the Harrisburg collection center.

A state motor police escort will accompany the truck caravan to Harrisburg.

The aluminum gathered in the county will be taken to Harrisburg the latter part of the week or early next week, depending upon the arrival here of contributions from various county communities.

Decorate Trucks

The trucks will be appropriately decorated emphasizing the aluminum being Adams County's contribution in the drive.

While no speaking program is planned efforts are being made to have the Junior American Legion Drum Corps present when the trucks leave for Harrisburg.

The pile of aluminum at the Engine House on East Middle street continues to grow and now is about eight feet high and measures about 21 feet across the base.

Chief of Police H. S. Roberts of Littlestown brought that community's contribution to Gettysburg this morning. The aluminum which filled a dump truck to which sideboards had been added weighed 280 pounds. Firemen estimated today that there is probably a ton or a ton and a half of the metal in the big heap on the engine house floor.

Towns To Hear From

Abbottstown, East Berlin, Biglerville, York Springs, Irlistown and Centennial are among the county towns yet to add their collections to the metal assembled here.

Meanwhile persons who were missed in the collection, rural residents who were not solicited and persons who have additional contributions are being urged to take their aluminum to the engine house.

Heat Wave Broken; Three Towns Start To Conserve Water

Mercury Sets 38-Year Record for July 28 By Skyrocketing to 101 Degrees; Monday Evening Is Hottest Of Year With Reading of 76

After setting an all-time high record for July 28 on Monday with a high of 101 degrees, also the highest reading taken here this year, the heat wave broke today and sent the mercury into the comfortable, low eighties. At 1 o'clock this afternoon the temperature was 81 degrees.

Official Gettysburg weather records in the possession of Doctor Henry Stewart, local observer, show that never since complete records were begun here in 1903 has a reading of 101 degrees been taken here on a July 28.

Monday night was the hottest this year with a low reading of 76 degrees. Thunderstorms in surrounding sections and an overcast sky today brought relief from the heat wave that kept Gettysburgians sweating in temperatures above 90 degrees since late last week.

[By the Associated Press]

Violent electrical storms brought costly relief to some sections of heat seared eastern Pennsylvania today. Most central and western sections, however, remained in the grip of a torrid wave which has claimed at least a dozen lives. Forecasts of showers held out hope of a break.

Philadelphia bore the brunt of the storms, zigzagging lightning striking trolley cars, a power plant, transformers, barns, houses and starting more than a score of fires in the city's northeast. Bolts injured three persons.

Torrential rains lashed by wind reaching 60 miles an hour in gusts flooded several sections of the city. Roofs were ripped from barns and small boats from their moorings in the Delaware River. Telephone and power lines were torn down. The temperature dropped from 96.9 degrees to 72 in two and a half hours.

Huge Trees Uprooted

Heavy property damage was reported in the Williamsport vicinity. Wind of cyclonic proportions ripped off a section of the roof at the C. A. Reed Company Paper Novelty plant, rain pouring in and damaging goods on three floors. A barn on one farm was wrecked, a silo on another. Trees, some as tall as 80 feet, were pulled out of the ground, some falling on automobiles.

State motor police headed some 30 searchers in woods near Bernice for David Millheim, 74-year-old retired

Three Adams County boroughs have taken action to conserve their water supplies that are being reduced due to the prolonged July drought.

At a special meeting of the Arendtsville borough council Monday evening a resolution was passed which provides that the upper county town's water supply should be used only for regular and necessary purposes and not for irrigation.

The resolution also states that the water will be shut off from any consumer who violates its provisions and that a $5 charge will be made to have the water turned on again.

Adequate Supply

Arendtsville's water supply is secured from springs about 2½ miles from the borough. It was brought out at the meeting Monday that there is enough water for the 130 consumers on the system for necessary household purposes. The resolution, it was pointed out, was passed for the purpose of curtailing the use of water for sprinkling lawns and gardens.

York Springs and Littlestown are the other two county boroughs that are urging their residents to conserve water.

York Springs secures its water from springs that are located two miles from town. The water is stored in a 285,000-gallon reservoir about one mile from town. Borough officials have asked consumers to save water wherever possible. The borough has a fine for the use of water on lawns and gardens at the present time.

Urges Conservation

In Littlestown no restriction has been placed on the use of water, but the consumers have been requested to conserve it. Wells and springs provide the borough's supply. At the July meeting of the Littlestown council last week it was decided to augment the water supply by drilling new wells.

Gettysburg's supply of water is about normal for this time of the year. Vernon Corie, manager of the local water company, said this morning. Water in Marsh Creek dropped considerably over the weekend and is only trickling over the dam at the pumping station, but the manager said that is often the condition at this time. He pointed out that there was no need yet for restrictions on the use of water here.

Lawns Are Burning

There have been reports of wells going dry on some farms in the county, but a survey of most of the county today showed that the water supply in the various sections, while growing smaller as the drought continues, is not critical.

Three canning plants—C. H. Musselman, Biglerville; Knouse Corporation, Peach Glen, and I. Z. Musselman, Orrtanna—reported sufficient water to carry on their operations.

Most of the damage being caused by the drought is being noticed on lawns, trees, shrubbery and flowers. The last measurable amount of rain fell on July 11, Arendtsville laboratory reports show. On that day .04 of an inch was recorded. The total rainfall for the first 28 days of July is 2.23 inches. The records at Arendtsville show that the normal rainfall for July is 3.88 inches. The July deficiency of 1.65 inches of rain to date and the deficiencies that were piled up by a dry spring, are held partly to blame for the diminishing supplies in the county.

Many Outsiders In County Jail

Outside talent has been responsible for much of the crime in Adams County recently if the complexion of the population of the Adams County Jail today is any indication. Sheriff D. J. Wolf has 14 prisoners in custody and only three of them are Adams Countians. Nine are from York County and six of that number are from Hanover. The other two are from Baltimore and one of those came here from the York County prison not long ago.

HAS BLOOD CLOT IN LEG

Erney Myers, clerk at the Hotel Gettysburg, has been confined to his home since Monday noon with a blood clot in the calf of his right leg. He received medical treatment and expects to resume his duties Wednesday.

EXTERMINATION IS OBJECTIVE OF HITLER, STALIN

Untold Thousands Pay With Their Lives in Bloody Conflict

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
[By the Associated Press]

One of the grim aspects of the great conflict in the Russian theater, which today's reports indicate is continuing with fierce intensity but without much change in position, is that it has developed into a savage and primitive battle of extermination which is costing the lives of untold thousands.

The Nazis early announced and frequently emphasized complete destruction of the Red Army as its primary objective. The matter presumably was publicized by Berlin for the purpose of breaking Bolshevik morale, but for once Nazi propaganda—which has been uniformly clever in this war—seems to have gone wrong. Somebody overlooked the fact that there were few announcements likely to make the Reds fight harder.

Respond In Kind

The Muscovites instead of cutting have accepted the German gage and responded in kind to the Hitlerian methods of liquidation. The result, is an altogether bloody business of the survival of the fittest.

But there is another issue in this terrible battle of millions which far transcends the ordinary stakes of war. That is, which of the two regimes, Nazism or Communism, is to survive.

The Hitlerites haven't limited their objectives to the obliteration of the Red Army. They say they will destroy the Communist regime also.

To this threat the Muscovites haven't replied in words. We do have what serves for an answer from wholly different quarters. Acting Secretary of State Welles declares that "there can be no peace until the Hitlerite government of Germany has been finally and utterly destroyed." That echoes British Premier Churchill's historic line: "We seek to beat the life and soul out of Hitler and Hitlerism—that alone."

What About People

Now if two and two do make four—if Hitler is bent on destroying the Communist regime and if the Allies are determined to beat the soul out of the Nazi regime—one is forced to the conclusion that either the Communist or the Nazi government is on the way out.

The death of either would, of course, represent a world-rocking development. Still it strikes me that interlocked with this is another question of even greater moment than the life or death of a regime. That is what is to be the fate of the people whose government has been destroyed.

Are they to be permitted the free choice of another government for themselves, or is their nation per chance to be punished, perhaps by being dismembered? In other words, are the people to be held equally responsible with their governments and suffer the same fate of being smashed.

I raise this question because these days one hears many bitter suggestions that extreme measures be applied to certain belligerent peoples in order to crush them so that they cannot again engage in war.

NEED FEDERAL FUNDS FOR ROAD

Harrisburg, July 29 (AP)—Need for federal funds to finance a proposed $50,000 extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike from Harrisburg to Philadelphia was seen today by Governor James, who said a 60-cent toll was recommended by an engineering firm which completed a traffic survey.

Based on the engineer's estimates of $2,653,000 annual revenue on the proposed express road, James said bonds for $26,000,000 could be issued, but money from the federal government would be necessary to make up the balance.

Chairman Walter A. Jones of the Turnpike Commission, who has been holding informal talks with Jesse Jones, Commerce Secretary and RFC head, made no comment immediately on the prospects for obtaining federal aid with a 60-cent toll.

The survey-takers made these recommendations:

Toll charge of 60 cents for passenger cars between Philadelphia and Middlesex this rate to be cut to 50 cents if the motorist intends to use the western leg through to Pittsburgh.

A minimum of 25 cents for fractional trips, establish a fare of $2 between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Truck rates would range from $1.50 for those up to 15,000 pounds to $3, for the heaviest trucks and trailers "in order to make the highway attractive to the lighter trucks which are by far the most prevalent in Pennsylvania."

Bus rates of $2 for a through trip over the eastern leg.

TROOPS GATHER FOR WAR GAMES

New Orleans, July 29 (AP)—The vanguard of the greatest armed force ever assembled for one operation in the Americas—equaling in numbers the American troops in the Meuse-Argonne offensive in 1918—came rolling toward Louisiana today for the August-September war maneuvers.

From Camp Blanding, Fla., motorized units have started to bring 12,000 men in 1,853 vehicles to the western Louisiana maneuver area, and 14 train serials will carry 28,000 more.

Heavy troop movements from Camp Shelby, Miss., to the scene of the war games began today, and by September 1 will have stripped the population of the big training base from almost 50,000 to 3,000 men.

Nineteen of the 33 divisions comprising the United States Army will take part in the exercises. Eleven are units of the Third Army, which will be pitted against the Second Army's eight divisions in the final phase of the war games in September after corps maneuvers during August.

In the Second Army will be a full armored corps, never before massed, the first and second armored divisions. General headquarters units, including air force and parachute troop units, will bring the total number of soldiers involved to 500,000.

Indiantown Gap, Pa., July 29—(AP)—Four hundred officers and enlisted men from every unit of the 28th Division today received certificates following a six weeks course at the chemical warfare school.

Graduation exercises of the school were to be held yesterday afternoon, but a heavy storm, driven by a 35-mile wind, marred them. A heavy rain fell just as Maj. Gen. Edward Martin, 28th Division commander, began to hand out the certificates, and caused the awards to be postponed until today.

Speakers at the exercises were Col. Haig Shekarian, chemical officer of the First Army; Lt. Col. Herbert K. Bear, chemical officer of the Third Corps Area; Gen. Martin and Col. Lewis W. Acker, Cheswick, until recently chemical officer of the 28th Division, who conducted the school.

EXTERMINATION IS OBJECTIVE OF HITLER, STALIN

Untold Thousands Pay With Their Lives in Bloody Conflict

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
(By the Associated Press)

One of the grim aspects of the great conflict in the Russian theater, which today's reports indicate is continuing with fierce intensity but without much change in position, is that it has developed into a savage and primitive battle of extermination which is costing the lives of untold thousands.

The Nazis early announced and frequently emphasized complete destruction of the Red Army as its primary objective. The matter presumably was publicized by Berlin for the purpose of breaking Bolshevik morale, but for once Nazi propaganda—which has been uniformly clever in this war—seems to have gone wrong. Someone overlooked the fact that there were few announcements likely to make the Reds fight harder.

Respond In Kind

The Muscovites instead of gutting have accepted the German gage and responded in kind to the Hitlerian methods of liquidation. The result, is an altogether bloody business of the survival of the fittest.

But there is another issue in this terrible battle of millions which far transcends the ordinary stakes of war. That is, which of the two regimes, Nazism or Communism, is to survive.

The Hitlerites haven't limited their objectives to the obliteration of the Red Army. They say they will destroy the Communist regime also.

To this threat the Muscovites haven't replied in words. We do have what serves for an answer from wholly different quarters. Acting Secretary of State Welles declares that "there can be no peace until the Hitlerite government of Germany has been finally and utterly destroyed." That echoes British Premier Churchill's historic line: "We seek to beat the life and soul out of Hitler and Hitlerism—that alone."

What About People

Now if two and two do make four—if Hitler is bent on destroying the Communist regime and if the Allies are determined to beat the soul out of the Nazi regime—one is forced to the conclusion that either the Communist or the Nazi government is on the way out.

The death of either would, of course, represent a world-rocking development. Still it strikes me that interlocked with this is another question of even greater moment than the life or death of a regime. That is what is to be the fate of the people whose government has been destroyed.

Are they to be permitted the free choice of another government for themselves, or is their nation per chance to be punished, perhaps by being dismembered? In other words, are the people to be held equally responsible with their governments and suffer the same fate of being smashed.

I raise this question because these days one hears many bitter suggestions that extreme measures be applied to certain belligerent peoples in order to crush them so that they cannot again engage in war.

ing equipment was taken up and it was found that a number of sizes and thread ratios are in use. A check on Gettysburg engines showed at least two different couplings in use here where all were believed to be standard dimensions.

Uniform Couplings

An Aspers company representative exhibited a set of dies and taps used to bring couplings of that company to National Standard size and it was suggested that the county firemen's association be asked to purchase a set of dies so that all couplings in the county can be standardized. Several companies reported they are equipped with "adapters" which enable different couplings to be used together.

It was decided to ask all chiefs to take couplings along to the annual county association convention in East Berlin on Labor Day for a complete check-up.

This committee was named to work out an order of business for the chiefs' association meetings: E. D. Bushman, Arendtsville; Emory Funt, Biglerville, and George Showaker, Barlow.

Three past presidents of the county firemen's association spoke briefly in favor of the formation of the new association. They were S. L. Allison, Fairfield; Harvey Adams, Centennial, and F. V. Topper, McSherrystown.

Companies represented Monday evening follow: Arendtsville, Aspers, Barlow, Bendersville, Biglerville, Centennial, Gettysburg, Greenmount, Littlestown, New Oxford, Reaser House of Gettysburg, and York Springs.

Over three-fourths of Russia's population are farmers.

NEED FEDERAL FUNDS FOR ROAD

Harrisburg, July 29 (AP)—Need for federal funds to finance a proposed $50,000 extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike from Harrisburg to Philadelphia was seen today by Governor James, who said a 60-cent toll was recommended by an engineering firm which completed a traffic survey.

Based on the engineer's estimates of $2,653,000 annual revenue on the proposed express road, James said bonds for $26,000,000 could be issued, but money from the federal government would be necessary to make up the balance.

Chairman Walter A. Jones of the Turnpike Commission, who has been holding informal talks with Jesse Jones, Commerce Secretary and RFC head, made no comment immediately on the prospects for obtaining federal aid with a 60-cent toll.

The survey-takers made these recommendations: Toll charge of 60 cents for passenger cars between Philadelphia and Middlesex this rate to be cut to 50 cents if the motorist intends to use the western leg through to Pittsburgh.

A minimum of 25 cents for fractional trips, establish a fare of $2 between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Truck rates would range from $1.50 for those up to 15,000 pounds to $3, for the heaviest trucks and trailers "in order to make the highway attractive to the lighter trucks which are by far the most prevalent in Pennsylvania."

Bus rates of $2 for a through trip over the eastern leg.

TROOPS GATHER FOR WAR GAMES

New Orleans, July 29 (AP)—The vanguard of the greatest armed force ever assembled for one operation in the Americas—equalling in numbers the American troops in the Meuse-Argonne offensive in 1918—came rolling toward Louisiana today for the August-September war maneuvers.

From Camp Blanding, Fla., motorized units have started to bring 12,000 men in 1,853 vehicles to the western Louisiana maneuver area, and 14 train serials will carry 26,000 more.

Heavy troop movements from Camp Shelby, Miss., to the scene of the war games began today, and by September 1 will have stripped the population of the big training base from almost 50,000 to 3,000 men.

Nineteen of the 33 divisions comprising the United States Army will take part in the exercises. Eleven are units of the Third Army, which will be pitted against the Second Army's eight divisions in the final phase of the war games in September after corps maneuvers during August.

In the Second Army will be a full armored corps, never before massed, the first and second armored divisions. General headquarters units, including air force and parachute troop units, will bring the total number of soldiers involved to 500,000.

DODGERS FACE CRUCIAL TEST AGAINST CARDS

By BILL BONI

Associated Press Sports Writer

Wobbling on both their hitting and their pitching legs, the Brooklyn Dodgers moved into St. Louis today for what may be the "make or break" series of their National League pennant aspirations.

Just two weeks ago these Dodgers were in first place, enjoying a four-game margin over the Cardinals. Then the hard-running, hard-hitting, ever-scraping Redbirds moved into Ebbets field, beat the Brooks in both contests of a short series, and started them on a toboggan slide that has them two lengths back of the Cards.

Up to that fateful July 15 Whit Wyatt and Kirby Higbe, with the help of Hugh Casey, were mowing down the batters in fine style. But not one of the three has been able to win since.

Durocher Stumped

Over the same stretch in which Brooklyn has lost nine and won three the Cardinals have won nine and lost three, even though Ernie White has been the only St. Louis pitcher able to go the route.

So deep is the present Durocher despair that Manager Leo Durocher, at last report, even was considering taking the step he'd vowed he wouldn't—putting himself back into the lineup in place of Pee-wee Reese at shortstop. The drive which Durocher always has had might be just the incentive the Brooks need.

Yesterday's major league holiday, in addition to giving time to study the Brooks plight, also gave the staticians a chance to collect some new figures on the New York Yankees. These latest are attendance figures, which show that in 41 home dates the American league leaders have averaged 19,569 paid admissions. With 32 at home still to be played, they may better the Yankee stadium record of 12,000,000.

Yanks vs Tigers

The Yanks resumed their home stand today against the Detroit Tigers. For the rest of the American league the lineup was Cleveland at Washington (Smith against Zuber), Chicago at Philadelphia (Ross against Beckman or Harris) and St. Louis at Boston (Auker against Harris).

In the National league it was Boston at Pittsburgh (Javery against Sullivan), New York at Cincinnati (Schumacher against Riddle), and Philadelphia at Chicago (Pearson against Lee).

Six runs in the third inning gave victory to the Katalysine aggregation.

On Thursday evening the Elks and Jr. C. of C. teams will clash on the newly-developed field on the old fair grounds in a game to determine the third and fourth place teams.

Next Monday the semi-final championship play-offs will be started. All play-off games will be played on the high school field.

ATHLETICS AIM AT TOP HALF OF JUNIOR CIRCUIT

Philadelphia, July 29 (AP)—After seven lean years Connie Mack and his Athletics may finish in the American League first division, the first step on the way back from the cellar to the former glories of the 1910-'14 and 1929-'31 championship eras.

Victorious in seven of their last eight starts, the A's now are virtually tied with the Chicago White Sox for fourth, a fraction of a percentage point favoring the Sox. The argument between the two clubs will be decided in a three-game series opening today.

Wise old Connie and his players feel they will dispose of Jimmy Dykes' club. Then they plan to overhaul Boston for third place.

"If we go that high," declared Connie, "we can make second. The Yanks are the class of the league but from second place to fifth it's anybody's race. If our pitching holds up and we keep hitting with men on there's no telling what may happen."

Not since 1933 when the Mack-meet, finished third have they been as high in the race at this stage of the campaign. They have won 45 and lost 48 and are virtually certain to win more than 58 games, the most they have won in any one season since 1934.

Back in May the A's surprised everyone by winning 14 of 19 games and gaining a temporary foothold in the first division. Then they lost six in a row and slipped back.

Now they are on the way up again, getting good pitching from Jack Knott, Les McCrabb, Tom Ferrick, Phil Marchildon, and Bump Hadley along with timely hitting from Bob Johnson, Sam Chapman, Wally Moses, Frank Hayes, Dick Siebert, Benny McCoy, Al Brancato and Pete Suder.

Connie attributes a great deal of the team's improvement to Suder, rookie third sacker, declaring "he's a great fielder and hits the best pitchers best."

U.S. Tourists Hit By Gas-Less Sunday

Toronto, Ont., July 28 (AP)—Canada's first gasoline-less Sunday resulted in little reduction in highway traffic Sunday as most motorists bought their supply before filling stations closed at 7 p. m. Saturday, highway officials reported today.

Tourists from the United States appeared to be about the only persons who were caught short by the restrictions.

Toronto police said they received about 30 calls from stranded tourists. The Ottawa tourist bureau said it had heard some complaints from American visitors who had not known of the new restriction.

Highway officials said however that there was a general slackening of speed as motorists endeavored to cooperate in the conservation measure.

8 BILLIONS FOR DEFENSE

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Another thumping big defense appropriation bill, carrying a total of $8,063,238,478 for the Army, Navy and Merchant Marine, took its place today on the Senate calendar.

The House on a voice passed the measure late yesterday and sent it to the other wing of the capitol.

The appropriations were earmarked as follows: Army — $4,760,203,813; Navy — $1,569,374,665; Maritime Commission — $1,698,650,000.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, July 9 (AP)—Tip: Connie Mack, who came up with one of the year's prize rookies in third-baseman Pete Suder, really will make their eyes pop with the youngsters he brings up from the farms in 1942.

Laundry proprietor J. Donald Budge has transferred his draft registration from an Oakland (California) board to one in Manhattan.

Larry MacPhail, after being at a fishing camp in the Canadian woods, had Dodge Secretary John MacDonald on the phone an hour and a quarter telling him everything that happened to the Brooks while he was away.

Walter St. Denis and Mike Jacobs, who rowed about a year ago, have kissed and made up. Walter probably will go back as publicity major-domo of Joe Louis' camp for the Nova boat, while Jack Milie will do the tub-thumping for Lou.

Nova, by the way, writes Manager Ray Carlen that he wants to stay up in the Maine woods until August 10.

And Carlen, just back from Florida, promptly went to bed with a heavy cold.

Today's guest star—Dick Williams, Seattle Times: "Headline — '100,000 Reserves at Moscow'—Looks like a big year for Idaho's new coach, Francis Schmidt. . . . If he can keep Pacific Coast Conference Czar Atherton from finding out about it."

From here and there—We hear the only cold from Seabiscuit broke a leg and had to be destroyed a few days ago at Charley Howard's California farm. . . . The tennis trouper are crediting Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke's pappy for her impressive record on the tennis courts this summer. It's husband Elwood's masterminding, they say, which has won her the New England, Middle States, Eastern Clay Court and Sea Bright titles. . . . Speaking of tennis, seven of the young men playing at Southampton this week have been champions of Santa Monica (California) at one time or another. . . . That Sunday doubleheader in Pittsburgh was hard labor for all the Dodgers but one—Catcher Herman Franks, who beamed a decision in the first inning of the first game and promptly was bounced. . . . Edwin Whitney, who used to be a southpaw pitcher in the old Southeastern League under the name of James Kerwin now is a reporter for the Jacksonville (Florida) Journal.

What's in a name—Louis Gross won low net in a Minneapolis golf tournament. . . . And the middle name of George Abrams, who battles Middleweight Champ Billy Soose tomorrow night, is Freedom.

One minute interview—Private Hugh Mulcahy, Camp Edwards, Massachusetts: "Even life with the Phillies was easier. But I can't complain. I've thought the whole thing over many times, and I've come to this conclusion. Every man owes his country a year."

Mike Jacobs' hopes of signing Book-er Beckwith, Chicago K. O. artist, have gone a-glimmering. The Negro heavy is tied up with Billy Rand, Chicago promoter, for five years.

Neville Dunn, former Lexington, (Kentucky) sports ed, is doing an extra-special fine job as new boss of "The Thoroughbred Record."

And has anyone pointed out that maybe Al Shelhamer made his move on Whirlaway too soon in the Arlington Classic? Or is the chart lying?

Does it matter, you may ask, where I take this prescription? Most druggists fill prescriptions. Isn't one place just about as good as another?

True, most druggists do fill prescriptions. And most doctors write prescriptions. Yet you seek out one specific medical man, because you have confidence in him. This same element of confidence, in our professional integrity and ethical standards, impels an increasing number of thoughtful persons to bring their prescriptions here.

Younger Soldiers Are Uncomplaining

Los Angeles, July 28 (AP)—If you want a man who takes life seriously, find one 28 or over. If you don't pick him younger.

That's the advice of Major A. E. Merrill, army induction chief for the Los Angeles area.

"It's a peculiar thing," says Merrill, "that since we stopped getting men 28 and over, there hasn't been a single instance of complaining by the men being sworn into service."

(The age limit for selectees recently was reduced from 36.)

"Before that, the men 28 and over almost invariably had some grumbling to do."

He wouldn't undertake to explain the pre-28 devil-may-care attitude, unless the young fellows don't think of one year as so important in their life.

"It's something like an unmarried woman reaching 25."

NEW POLICE CHIEF
Oil City, Pa., July 29 (AP)—Captain Joseph W. Daman, 41, was promoted to chief of police by city council last night to succeed Edward Nugent, chief for 30 years who died last week.

Brown Upsets Title Hopes of Jim Webb

Pittsburgh, July 29 (AP)—Jimmy Webb, of Houston, Texas, a leading contender for the light heavyweight title recently vacated by Billy Conn, was knocked out in two rounds last night in a stunning upset scored by Mose Brown, a relatively unknown Pittsburgh negro slugger.

Webb had never before been knocked out and was a six-to-one favorite to win the scheduled ten-round contest. He weighed half a pound less than Brown's 170.

The negro's victory was well earned. He floored Webb twice in the first round during a terrific exchange of punches and knocked him unconscious in the second round.

Webb tentatively had been scheduled to meet Gus Lesnevich in New York next month for the light heavyweight championship. Now he will fight Brown here again on August 18 in a comeback attempt.

W.P.A. WORKMAN ADMITS SLAYING

Kittanning, Pa., July 29 (AP)—State Motor Police today resumed questioning of a 34-year old former WPA workman about the slaying of Mrs. Olive Fox, 51, wife of a miner, at her McWilliams home last Saturday.

Lieut. A. J. Hudak said the prisoner, a neighbor of the woman, told him he made improper advances toward her and then shot her with a small calibre rifle because "I didn't want her husband to know."

The husband, William F. Fox, was working in a coal mine at the time. Hudak said he had not placed a formal charge against the suspect pending the clearing up of several details. One was the missing gun. The suspect told police he had hidden the weapon in a haybox but a search for it yesterday proved fruitless.

Quizzed on Other Crimes

As a "strictly routine matter" Hudak said he had questioned the man about other crimes, particularly the slaying of Rachael Taylor, young Penn State co-ed, at State College March 29, 1940. The officer said he did not believe the suspect had any knowledge of the case.

District Attorney W. A. Ashe, and Coroner C. M. Woodward joined in the questioning. Woodward said he understood the man had lived in the Red Bank Township area and near Brookville most of his life.

"He apparently never had a steady job, but was employed for a time by the WPA," said Woodward.

The Coroner said Mrs. Fox apparently had been shot in the living room of her home, then fled outside. Her body was found in the front yard.

About 14 per cent of all persons gainfully employed in the United States before advent of the defense program were women.

ADJUSTMENT

ALL life is an adjustment. We travel the road of compromise. We keep cutting loaves into parts and gain satisfaction from that part until we are able to so adjust our lives as to merit the entire loaf.

At this moment every one of us is adjusting his life to the emergencies of world war. It is not easy. It all calls for sacrifice and change of methods as well as of modes of individual living. But these are willingly taken that a better order of life may come about for the many. And after the long and bitter war is over there will be adjustments to be made that few of us now realize.

The test of character comes from the heart. A man may have all that he may have accumulated over a long term of years, swept from under him in very short order. If that test of character holds, he will adjust his life to the result and perhaps know more genuine happiness than he has ever known.

We are called upon to adjust our way of life after a close beloved one has been taken from our circle. Sorrow always calls for adjustment. But time is a great healer and individual faith is a sturdy fortress. Every mother, who has lost a child, knows this.

The boy who loses his job has to adjust himself to the emergency, but if he keeps his nerve and re-enforces that will of his, he is sure to meet his reward in a newer, and perhaps better job. Many a man's turning point for the best has been after having been discharged from a job.

I once knew a newspaper publisher who was "kicked out" of his home. He walked to the biggest city in his state, slept on the lawn of the public park—and then started his brains to work. He became one of the wealthiest men in his state, owned its leading newspapers, was interested in many other large enterprises, including a bank and a great manufacturing plant. Had he not adjusted himself to his early misfortune he would have remained just another one of the many.

Everything in this world can be adjusted with the necessary will, plan, and purpose.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Loss of Tastes."

GOLFING PARSON CONFESSES
The golfing parson shook his head. "Preaching's much easier," he said. "It's easier to point the way than follow it from day to day. What's right to do, I'm sure I know. I get good counsel from the pros. And yet in spite of all I learn Golf's evil habits still return."

"My guide and mentor oft has said: Remember, do not lift your head. Your eye upon the ball retain. Or else you'll strike at it in vain: Swing freely, without lunge or jerk. And let the clubhouse do the work: Relax a bit—I know it all. Yet still in evil ways I fall!"

"How slowly towards the heights we move!
How little mortals here improve:
Though wise the text and true the word
How little after all is heard!
The sermon ends: Man would be good
And change for better if he could:
But still old blunders spoil his card
To gain perfection is so hard!"

The Authentic Account of a Tragedy: One of the Earliest in What Is Now Adams County

KITZMILLER'S MILL
The following description of Kitzmiller's Mill, near which Dudley Digges was shot by Jacob Kitzmiller, was originally published August 10, 1886. Its author, "M," was a resident of Littlestown but was not further identified. The description is republished in its original form, text, tense, spelling etc.

THIS mill is located near the head waters of the Little Conowago, in Conowago township, Adams county; part of the land is situated in Union township and it is part of an original tract of 164 acres which was deeded by Thomas and Richard Penn to Martin Kitzmiller for the sum of $25, 8 shillings and 4 pence. The deed is dated Sept. 17, 1759, and was issued on a land warrant held by Mr. Kitzmiller from the Penns under date of Feb. 5, 1747, and with the stipulation of paying one-half penny, sterling, annually per acre, like Manor of Maske. The tract was bounded by lands of Barnet Brandt, Abraham Sell, John Diggs and Conrad Keefhaver.

If the dates of the building of the first mill are correct Mr. Kitzmiller must either have been a "squatter" or the tract held in dispute, since the tragic altercation between Martin Kitzmiller and Dudley Digges occurred in 1752.

The founder of this mill exercised sufficient foresight to carve in stone a few dates to be a guide for future generations. In the gable of the old mill, about 14 feet from the ground, is placed half a mill burr in the wall, upon which is the following inscription: Hans Martin Kitzmiller, underneath the inscription are the initials I H G K M, on the left Ano 1738, on the right Ano 1755, underneath the five initials May 12, 1791. According to these dates the first log mill was built in 1738, which antedates any of the churches organized west of York. In 1755 part of the mill now standing, 28 by 42 feet, was built of brick, and on the north gable it can yet be seen where the mill was built alongside of the old mill or a dwelling house; a dwelling house is still remembered by old citizens, and in 1791 an addition was built to the mill, making her dimensions 42 by 60, walls 2 feet thick and 3 stories high. We have heard of no one yet that could solve the meaning of the five initials. Your historian might venture on a guess, but not having access to the proper manuscripts, he will withhold his opinion for the present.

In 1773 John and George Kitzmiller, Assignees of Martin Kitzmiller, conveyed the mill and 188¼ acres of land to George Kitzmiller for the sum of 5 shillings. In 1829 Jacob Heagy, of Germany township, bought of Michael Kitzmiller, Executor of George Kitzmiller, the mill and 85 acres for $7,060. In 1830 he sold the mill and farm to Jacob Kitzmiller for $7,600. In 1831 Michael Kitzmiller bought the mill and farm, 85 acres, for $8,360. In 1832 Mr. Kitzmiller increased the water power by building the mill dam, which covered 18 acres. In 1844 he sold the mill and 26 acres of land to William S. Jenkins for $6,500. Thus the mill, with the exception of one year, was in the possession of the Kitzmillers for 106 years. Wm. S. Jenkins sold the mill to John Duttera in 1854 for $8,010.

In 1866 Ephraim and Benjamin Bollinger bought the mill of John Duttera for $9,000. The tract now contains 27 acres. The Bollinger brothers remodeled the mill in 1869, putting in turbine wheels and entire new machinery, etc. After the death of Benjamin his brother, Ephraim Bollinger, bought his half interest in 1877, and is now the sole owner.

A short distance north of the mill was a saw and hemp mill, the tail race still being visible. There was a clover huller run by water power in connection with the property.

The mill and farm, and the two farms now the Stoner and Bollinger farms, were owned by the Kitzmillers. They were robust and hardy pioneers, and the surroundings indicate that they kept pace with the times and improvements.

Mr. Ephraim Bollinger has a plot of a town that was laid out on what is now the Major Bollinger, deceased, farm, dated Aug. 30, 1815, containing 82 lots; it was laid out by Robert Jones and was called Gainsburg. The farm was formerly owned by George Kitzmiller. The lots remained unsold and in 1825 he was sold out by the sheriff. The dwelling house, one of the old land marks in Conowago township, was torn down last year. On one of the logs was some carving and

Finns Claim They Have "Purge" Order

Helsinki, Finland, July 29 (AP)—The Finnish government information bureau said today that Finnish forces had captured an order of the day signed by Joseph Stalin indicating the liquidation of nine high officers of the Red Army.

(There was no confirmation of such a "purge" from Moscow or any other source.)

The former commander of the western front, General Pavlov, and the western chief of staff, General Klimovsky, headed the list of the official Finnish bureau asserted. It said the order of the day charged the generals with "shameless cowardice, defeatism and incapacity to lead, causing a breakdown of military operations, surrender of arms to the enemy without fighting and desertion of their posts."

PUNCH PULLED FROM RED ACTS ASSERTS JAMES

Harrisburg, July 29 (AP)—Pennsylvania has three new laws denying a place on the ballot, relief or public office to persons advocating overthrow of the government but Governor James signed the legislation protesting it added very little to the state's protection against subversive activities.

The Republican Governor, asserting that a Democratic-controlled house had removed the teeth from the subversive bills, criticized the same group for failing to pass a companion anti-sabotage measure before adjournment a week ago.

The executive hinted he would call the legislators back into special session if Pennsylvania's vast defense industries suffer from treachery.

Bills Amended
The bills to remove from relief rolls or public office and to ban from the ballot any persons who advocate the overthrow of the government were amended in the House to apply only to those who commit an overt act in a movement to overthrow. Court appeals also were provided.

"As a matter of practice it would probably be simpler to convict a violator of treason itself than of breaking these acts intended to strengthen our protection," said the Governor.

"This comment is not an idle one, since the definition of subversive activities prohibited by the acts was made virtually identical with the definition of treason contained in the Constitution of the United States, calling for an overt act or acts aimed against the federal or state government."

Have Little Value
"Since originally the bills were intended to curb the activities of persons who were on the borderline of treason but shrewd enough not to be caught committing overt acts, it is obvious that the laws as passed have very little value."

"The teeth were extracted from all three bills by Democratic dentists in the General Assembly. As finally passed these three laws add very little to the state's protection against subversive activities."

The Democrats made the language general instead of applying to "Nazis, communists and Fascists" as proposed by the Republicans.

The three anti-subversive bills were among the last to be passed by the Legislature before adjourning 10 days ago, but they stirred up the session's lengthiest and sharpest debate in the house. The sabotage measure was held in a House committee.

Breaks Par to Take Open Golf Tourney

Bedford Springs, Pa., July 29 (AP)—Breaking par on both his morning and afternoon rounds, Mike Pavella, of Greene County Country Club won the Bedford Springs 36-hole open golf tournament Monday with a card of 70-69-139.

In winning his first tournament of any size, the 25-year-old pro finished two strokes of Leo Walper, Washington, D. C., driving range operator, who, being ill, played with his wife's clubs because they were lighter. Walper shot 71-70-141.

Pavella received $100 and Walper $75.

Steve Kovach, Pittsburgh's diminutive steel worker, romped off with the first amateur prize with his two rounds of 71, par. Ralph Beach, of Baltimore, after a sluggish 76 in the morning, broiled the fairways in the afternoon with a 66, his total of 142 earning third place money of $60.

a date 1732 or '39, quite likely the latter, it being on the public highway, which was not laid out until 1740-41. The larger part of the original mill tract is now owned by Ezra Miller and David Boyer.

Churchill Warns Britons Of Possible Invasion In September; Forces Alert

London, July 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill warned Britons today of the possibility of a German invasion attempt in September.

At the same time he rejected demands for appointment of a minister for war production and spoke "with considerable regret" of the severance of diplomatic relations with Nazi-associated Finland.

Forces At Alert
"The invasion season is at hand," he said. "All armed forces have been warned to be at concert pitch by Sept. 1 and to maintain the utmost vigilance."

He added that "it is madness to suppose that Russia or the United States is going to win the war for us."

Churchill declared that parliamentary and press demands for a coordinator or minister of production would be ignored, and he deplored careless criticism of British industries for its effect abroad, particularly in the United States and Australia.

"In the United States," he said, "where there is a vigorous campaign against the policy pursued by the President, I fear that harm has been done and it cannot be easily overtaken or healed."

Finland Breaks
The British foreign office announced that Finland had broken relations with Britain, which 17 months ago was shipping her cash and war materials for her 1939-40 fight with Soviet Russia.

Churchill did not say whether Finland would be regarded formally by the British as a German ally in her new war against the Red Army.

The Prime Minister answered demands that he appoint a minister of production with a blunt challenge to the House to take a vote on the question if it dared.

Retorting to a member's statement that Britain was not striving at any three-fourths of her capacity, he said: "We are not a totalitarian state but we are steadily and I believe as fast as possible working ourselves into a total war organization."

Priorities Settled
Appointment of a minister of production "would be a farce and a

GREAT FUTURE AHEAD, FORD

Detroit, July 29 (AP)—Henry Ford believes a person "even 90 years old can start at scratch and make a great success—if he or she will face forward"; he believes also that "right now a new world is being born—a very different world."

The man whom success eluded until he was past 40 years of age made these assertions in a statement today as he prepared to observe his 78th birthday anniversary quietly aboard one of his lake freighters tomorrow. With Mrs. Ford he will go to the Ford northern Michigan lodge for the customary mid-summer vacation.

"Contrary to what appears on the surface," Ford said, "this war is bringing the people of the world together as never before. It touches every race and people on earth. They're beginning to see that you can't build anything permanent on hate."

Ford said the new world he visualized "will hold opportunities in kind and number such as the world has never seen before."

"What's happening right now is like the spring breaking up the winter's ice," he said. "The new world is surging up from below. And it will be filled with opportunity for everybody who can stop looking backward, face about and go forward. Why, a person even 90 years old, if he or she will face forward, can start at scratch and make a great success."

FIFTH COLUMN TO BEAT HITLER

Philadelphia, July 29 (AP)—Hitler finally will be beaten by fifth columnists working against him in all the countries of Europe, Senator Tobey (R-N.H.) last night told a meeting of the National Legion Mothers and Women of America.

He urged that all possible aid be given Britain but added "I am under the conviction that the best interests of the American people demand that America stay out of this war."

TEMPLE DEAN QUILTS
Philadelphia, July 29 (AP)—Dr. John G. Hervey has resigned as dean of the Temple University Law School to assume the same position at his Alma Mater, the University of Oklahoma.

NOW WHAT?

Pittsburgh, July 29 (AP)—O. B. Hannon sought the court's help today out of a dilemma which found him a candidate for mayor when he didn't want to be and not a candidate for city council which he wanted to be.

The snag occurred thus, Hannon said:

Last week he filed petitions for both mayor and council but later decided to run only for council. By mistake his candidacy for council was withdrawn and his mayoralty candidacy remained. The error was not discovered until after the withdrawal deadline had passed and election officials told Hannon the courts must decide the matter.

Hannon, a Republican, is former chairman of the Allegheny County Tax Board.

Hasty and adventurous schemes are at first view flattering, in execution difficult and in the issue disastrous. — Lavy.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

ADJUSTMENT

ALL life is an adjustment. We travel the road of compromise. We keep cutting leaves into parts and gain satisfaction from that part until we are able to so adjust our lives as to merit the entire loaf.

At this moment every one of us is adjusting his life to the emergencies of world war. It is not easy. It all calls for sacrifice and change of methods as well as of modes of individual living. But these are willingly taken that a better order of life may come about for the many. And after the long and bitter war is over there will be adjustments to be made that few of us now realize.

The test of character comes from the heart. A man may have all that he may have accumulated over a long term of years, swept from under him in very short order. If that test of character holds, he will adjust his life to the result and perhaps know more genuine happiness than he has ever known.

We are called upon to adjust our way of life after a close beloved one has been taken from our circle. Sorrow always calls for adjustment. But time is a great healer and individual faith is a sturdy fortress. Every mother, who has lost a child, knows this.

The boy who loses his job has to adjust himself to the emergency, but if he keeps his nerve and reinforces that will of his, he is sure to meet his reward in a newer, and perhaps better job. Many a man's turning point for the best has been after having been discharged from a job.

I once knew a newspaper publisher who was "kicked out" of his home. He walked to the biggest city in his state, slept on the lawn of the public park—and then started his brains to work. He became one of the wealthiest men in his state, owned its leading newspapers, was interested in many other large enterprises, including a bank and a great manufacturing plant. Had he not adjusted himself to his early misfortune he would have remained just another one of the many.

Everything in this world can be adjusted with the necessary will, plan, and purpose.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Loss of Tastes."

GOLFING PARSONS CONFESSES

The golfing parson shook his head. "Preaching's much easier," he said. "It's easier to point the way than follow it from day to day. What's right to do, I'm sure I know. I get good counsel from the pro. And yet in spite of all I learn Golf's evil habits still return.

"My guide and mentor oft has said: 'Remember, do not lift your head. Your eye upon the ball retain. Or else you'll strike at it in vain; Swing freely, without lunge or jerk. And let the clubhead do the work; Relax a bit—I know it all. Yet still in evil ways I fall!"

"How slowly towards the heights we move!
How little mortals here improve!
Though wise the text and true the word
How little after all is heard!
The sermon ends! Man would be good
And change for better if he could;
But still old blunders spoil his card!
To gain perfection is so hard!"

Helsinki, Finland, July 29 (AP)—The Finnish government information bureau said today that Finnish forces had captured an order of the day signed by Joseph Stalin indicating the liquidation of nine high officers of the Red Army.

(There was no confirmation of such a "purge" from Moscow or any other source.)

The former commander of the western front, General Pavlov, and the western chief of staff, General Klimovsky, headed the list the official Finnish bureau asserted.

It said the order of the day charged the generals with "shameless cowardice, defeatism and incapacity to lead, causing a breakdown of military operations, surrender of arms to the enemy without fighting and desertion of their posts."

PUNCH PULLED FROM RED ACTS ASSERTS JAMES

Harrisburg, July 29 (AP)—Pennsylvania has three new laws denying a place on the ballot, relief or public office to persons advocating overthrow of the government but Governor James signed the legislation protesting it added very little to the state's protection against subversive activities.

The Republican Governor, asserting that a Democratic-controlled house had removed the teeth from the subversive bills, criticized the same group for failing to pass a companion anti-sabotage measure before adjournment a week ago.

The executive hinted he would call the legislators back into special session if Pennsylvania's vast defense industries suffer from treachery.

Bills Amended
The bills to remove from relief rolls or public office and to ban from the ballot any persons who advocate the overthrow of the government were amended in the House to apply only to those who commit an overt act in a movement to overthrow. Court appeals also were provided.

"As a matter of practice it would probably be simpler to convict a violator of treason itself than of breaking these acts intended to strengthen our protection," said the Governor.

"This comment is not an idle one, since the definition of subversive activities prohibited by the acts was made virtually identical with the definition of treason contained in the Constitution of the United States, calling for 'an overt act or acts' aimed against the federal or state government."

Have Little Value
"Since originally the bills were intended to curb the activities of persons who were on the borderline of treason but shrewd enough not to be caught committing overt acts, it is obvious that the laws as passed have very little value."

"The teeth were extracted from all three bills by Democratic dentists in the General Assembly. As finally passed these three laws add very little to the state's protection against subversive activities."

The Democrats made the language general instead of applying to "Nazis, communists and Fascists" as proposed by the Republicans.

The three anti-subversive bills were among the last to be passed by the Legislature before adjourning 10 days ago, but they stirred up the session's lengthiest and sharpest debate in the house. The sabotage measure was held in a House committee.

Breaks Par to Take Open Golf Tourney

Bedford Springs, Pa., July 29 (AP)—Breaking par on both his morning and afternoon rounds, Mike Pavella, of Greene County Country Club won the Bedford Springs 36-hole open golf tournament Monday with a card of 70-69-139.

In winning his first tournament of any size, the 25-year-old pro finished two strokes of Leo Walper, Washington, D. C., driving range operator, who, being ill, played with his wife's clubs because they were lighter. Walper shot 71-70-141.

Pavella received $100 and Walper $75.

Steve Kovach, Pittsburgh's diminutive steel worker, romped off with the first amateur prize with his two rounds of 71, par. Ralph Beach, of Baltimore, after a sluggish 76 in the morning, broiled the fairways in the afternoon with a 66, his total of 142 earning third place money of $60.

a date 1732 or '39, quite likely the latter, it being on the public highway, which was not laid out until 1740-41. The larger part of the original mill tract is now owned by Ezra Miller and David Boyer.

Churchill Warns Britons Of Possible Invasion In September; Forces Alert

London, July 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill warned Britons today of the possibility of a German invasion attempt in September.

At the same time he rejected demands for appointment of a minister for war production and spoke "with considerable regret" of the severance of diplomatic relations with Nazi-associated Finland.

Forces At Alert
"The invasion season is at hand," he said. "All armed forces have been warned to be at concert pitch by Sept. 1 and to maintain the utmost vigilance."

He added that "it is madness to suppose that Russia or the United States is going to win the war for us."

Churchill declared that parliamentary and press demands for a coordinator or minister of production would be ignored, and he deplored careless criticism of British industries for its effect abroad, particularly in the United States and Australia.

"In the United States," he said, "where there is a vigorous campaign against the policy pursued by the President, I fear that harm has been done and it cannot be easily overtaken or healed."

Finland Breaks
The British foreign office announced that Finland had broken relations with Britain, which 17 months ago was shipping her cash and war materials for her 1939-40 fight with Soviet Russia.

Churchill did not say whether Finland would be regarded formally by the British as a German ally in her new war against the Red Army.

The Prime Minister answered demands that he appoint a minister of production with a blunt challenge to the House to take a vote on the question if it dared.

Retorting to a member's statement that Britain was not striving at any three-fourths of her capacity, he said: "We are not a totalitarian state but we are steadily and I believe as fast as possible working ourselves into a total war organization."

Priorities Settled
Appointment of a minister of production "would be a farce and a fraud on the public," Churchill said, because it would be merely a nominal office and would cause delay and would undermine ministerial responsibility.

"Such troubles as there were 12 months ago have largely died away. Our American friends and helpers are making a great effort for the common cause," he added.

British war industries were said to be moving along smoothly.

"At the present moment there is no dispute about priorities," he said.

NOW WHAT?

Pittsburgh, July 29 (AP)—O. B. Hannon sought the court's help today out of a dilemma which found him a candidate for mayor when he didn't want to be and not a candidate for city council which he wanted to be.

The snag occurred thus, Hannon said:

Last week he filed petitions for both mayor and council but later decided to run only for council. By mistake his candidacy for council was withdrawn and his mayoralty candidacy remained. The error was not discovered until after the withdrawal deadline had passed and election officials told Hannon the courts must decide the matter.

Hannon, a Republican, is former chairman of the Allegheny County Tax Board.

NAZIS TEMPER CLAIMS IN WAR

Berlin, July 29 (AP)—Advance German units were reported today to have blasted their way to within 45 miles of Leningrad, Soviet Russia's second city, while the press ushered in the sixth week of the eastern campaign by hastening to tell the public the operations "can't be finished between dawn and dusk."

Although the high command yesterday maintained its reticence regarding the position of the Nazi forces, DNB, the official news agency, said some units had stabbed to the vicinity of Volosovo, 45 miles southwest of Leningrad.

There, DNB related, the Germans found a Russian division commander's report in a captured Red Army staff car disclosing that the 41st Russian Division had been trapped by the Germans for several days. This account said the captured car was found on one of the main roads to the big Baltic city, indicating this route now is in Nazi hands.

With the high command saying only that operations were proceeding satisfactorily along the entire Baltic-to-Black Sea front, semi-official reports told of another important action in the vicinity of Mogilev, on the south side of the Smolensk sector before Moscow.

Accidents involving firearms, including "I didn't know it was loaded" guns, killed 2,582 Americans in 1939, the Census Bureau reports.

GREAT FUTURE AHEAD, FORD

Detroit, July 29 (AP)—Henry Ford believes a person "even 90 years old can start at scratch and make a great success—if he or she will face forward," he believes also that "right now a new world is being born—a very different world."

The man whom success eluded until he was past 40 years of age made these assertions in a statement today as he prepared to observe his 78th birthday anniversary quietly aboard one of his lake freighters tomorrow. With Mrs. Ford he will go to the Ford northern Michigan lodge for the customary mid-summer vacation.

"Contrary to what appears on the surface," Ford said, "this war is bringing the people of the world together as never before. It touches every race and people on earth. They're beginning to see that you can't build anything permanent on hate."

Ford said the new world he visualized "will hold opportunities in kind and number such as the world has never seen before."

"What's happening right now is like the spring breaking up the winter's ice," he said. "The new world is surging up from below. And it will be filled with opportunity for everybody who can stop looking backward, face about and go forward. Why, a person even 90 years old, if he or she will face forward, can start at scratch and make a great success."

FIFTH COLUMN TO BEAT HITLER

Philadelphia, July 29 (AP)—Hitler finally will be beaten by fifth columnists working against him in all the countries of Europe, Senator Tobey (R-N.H.) last night told a meeting of the National Legion Mothers and Women of America.

He urged that all possible aid be given Britain but added "I am under the conviction that the best interests of the American people demand that America stay out of this war."

CHAPTER TWO

Quarrel

In the mirror I saw Alice twisting her hands nervously, her head bent slightly over them. The light had gone from her eyes and she looked tired and helpless as though my words had leaped out of my mind and she had heard them. I was instantly contrite.

"You'd better start," Alice, what's the matter?" She had dropped her head onto the dressing table.

"Nothing. Just a headache. Nerves, I guess, and all this excitement."

"Would an aspirin help?" Philip Ashley will have one. I've played with him before and he wouldn't think of opening a show without his medicine kit properly stocked.

"Oh, Halla, don't bother."

"Shucks, I've been playing doctor all day. I'll run up and get it now."

Philip Ashley's dressing room was on the third floor and as I climbed the stairs I could hear the quiet whisperings and feel the excitement and anticipation romping through the theatre. At the light switch Tommy Neilson was giving sharp soft orders and from the second floor, where Benjamin Kerry dressed, came a gentle grumbling. And I could hear Steve Brown humming nervously and the floating sound of Eve Norton's laugh, tinkling and unconcerned.

If I hadn't known that Philip Ashley was in New York, I would have still been sure that this dressing room was his. He had been in it only a few nights now, the dress rehearsal and two invitation performances, but he had made it as much his own as a bedroom where he had slept every night of his life.

In a corner I located his first-aid department, a roll of bandages, adhesive tape, a number of partially filled bottles and jars. I rummaged through them and found a small cellophane package housing two white tablets, the kind that they sell aspirin in at drugstores. I picked it up, pleased that Philip hadn't failed me.

"Put that down!"

Philip Ashley stood in the doorway. He was already in his first act cutaway and looked handsome and youthful in spite of the silver wings at his temples that were powdered to a brilliant sheen.

"I said put that down!" I hadn't noticed that his face was white with anger and that he glared at me in a kind of trembling fury. The clipped British voice was shaking. Helplessly, I stared at him and then at the tablets in my hand, so stunned I could find no words to say. Then Ashley strode across the room and snatched the tablets from me.

"I won't have people snooping in my room. I won't have it! While I'm engaged at this theatre this is my property and it is personal and private. I shan't have people darting in and out, messing with my things, infringing on my privacy. I shall complain at once to the manager!"

"Nobody's darting in and out!" I said. Somewhere during his tirade I had found my voice. "I just wanted to borrow an aspirin for Alice McDonald. I never thought you'd mind."

"I shan't have people snooping around," he repeated sullenly.

"All right. All right, I'm sorry."

No Alice

I went flouncing out of his room, slamming the door hard behind me. The whole thing was ridiculous. Nice, good-natured Philip Ashley putting on a temperamental act. The way he had burst out at me you might have thought I was a second-story man about to make off with his most prized possession. Either our ex-matinee idol had a bad case of opening night jitters or, in spite of his alleged forty-three years, he was growing senile.

Steve Brown was parked on the top step at the end of the hall, laughing at me.

"Caught you that time, didn't he?"

"I've never been so insulted, not in all my years as a kleptomaniac."

Steve chuckled and then became serious. "What's this about Carol? She can't play tonight?"

"No. Laryngitis. It kills her to even whisper."

"The first night of her first show! Why do things like that have to happen?" He thrust his hands deep into his bathrobe pockets and walked glowering down the hall to Ashley's room.

Steve Brown

It was always hard for me to realize that Steve was the Steve Brown, son of the Stephen Munson Browns, Backest Bay family in Boston, and, incidentally, millionaires many times over. Standing there in a ratty colored bathrobe that must have been presented to him on about his tenth birthday, with a raveled towel around his neck and his sandy hair tousled, he had looked like some kid who had run away from the other side of the railroad tracks to go on the stage.

He tried his best to act like one too, probably to counteract the millionaire publicity he was getting. Since his advent in the theatre, much against the older Stephen Munson Brown's wishes, he had ticked off about a mile of space in theatrical gossip columns. Everything he did was news, buying a girl a soda, moving to a new hotel, changing his brand of cigarettes. He took it all good-naturedly but I think at times it made him sick.

I went on downstairs to my dressing room. Alice wasn't there and I sat at my table and started smearing a make-up base on my chin. Tommy opened the door two inches, yelled "half hour" and went on. I could hear him along the hall and on the stairs, stopping at each room and banging the doors behind him. Then, before I had got the grease paint even to my forehead, he was back. I could tell from the pound of his brogans on the steps and the way he burst into my room that something was wrong.

"Where did McDonald go?"

"I don't know. Why?"

"Phoebe just saw her tearing down the alley. She called after her but Alice was going to beat hell and she hasn't come back."

"Probably she went to get a bromo. She had a headache."

"She had her hat and coat on."

"It's freezing out, Tommy."

"She could have swallowed a gallon of bromo by now. The drugstore's only ten steps away." He looked nervously at his watch. "Go call Carol!"

"She should be here in case McDonald doesn't come back. And for some reason I have a hunch she won't."

"Of course she will, this is the chance she's been . . ."

"We can't risk it, Halla. Call Carol, will you, please?" Tommy's voice rose.

I tried to be patient. "Tommy, she couldn't play if she did come. She can't talk, understand! And there's no use even calling her, because she won't answer the phone; she can't."

"All right, we'll go get her."

But Carol Talked

"We! But I'm making up, I . . ." Tommy flung my coat at me and grabbed my wrist and I was being hurried down the stairs, through the alley, into a taxi. The driver, sensing Tommy's haste, had the cab moving almost before we were in it. I pulled the Turkish towel off my head and made futile swipes at my grease paint with it while Tommy told the driver where to go and to hurry, that it was a matter of life and death. The driver looked back at me.

"I can believe it, buddy," he said. The Paramount clock leered twenty after eight through the taxi window. Twenty after eight. I groaned and then I was furious. "Tommy, why? In heaven's name, why am I going?"

"Huh?"

British Sub Captain Tells Of Sinking Eight Axis Ships

Alexandria, Egypt, July 29 (De-layed)—(AP).—A British submarine captain, just returned from Mediterranean operations, described today the sinking of an Axis convoy off Crete as "knocking them off like wooden ducks in a shooting gallery."

Ordered to frustrate German and Italian efforts to reinforce Aegean Islands, the captain came back with a "sunk" score of five caiques, two schooners, one big Italian tanker and one troop transport.

The captain was at sea about two weeks. His detailed account of action went something like this: "Sliding through the Aegean the submarine first came upon a convoy of two troopships escorted by a destroyer and an aircraft. The ships were loaded with Italian soldiers probably on their way to Piraeus, Port of Athens.

"Ashcans' Miss
"We immediately fired torpedoes at each of the ships, one about 4,000 tons, the other 2,500 tons. We hit and undoubtedly sank the largest, which, I believe, was the City of Tripoli. The destroyer depth-charged us for nearly an hour as we rapidly submerged, but their 'ashcans' didn't fall close enough.

(Lloyd's register lists no City of Tripoli, but there is a 2,933-ton passenger vessel named Citta di Tripoli.)

Using her four-inch deck gun, the submarine later sank a caique

aboard which there were 30 Germans, the captain said.

Through the periscope about two days later, the captain sighted a large caique and a schooner, both flying the Swastika and loaded with troops. Coming to the surface the submarine opened fire and shelled for six minutes, setting both ships ablaze. About 100 German soldiers leaped for rubber boats.

Some time later the submarine ran into her first night action. A convoy of three caiques and one schooner was sighted between the Greek mainland and Crete carrying troops, fuel oil and ammunition, the captain said.

"We sank them one by one, knocking them off like wooden ducks in a shooting gallery by gunfire under brilliant early-morning moonlight," the captain said. "There was some light fire from a gun aboard one of the caiques, but all their shells burst miles from us."

The submarine moved alongside one of the caiques before sinking her.

One of the submarine officers boarded the caique. He spoke German. While he asked questions one German soldier attempted to hurl a hand grenade, but he was shot dead. Another German raised his rifle and he, too, was shot down. The Germans were ordered to abandon the caique and then clambered into a rubber raft.

Taxes Go Soaring In New Measure Before Congress

Washington, July 29 (AP)—John Doe added up his federal tax bill today, and found it probably was going to be tripled.

Mr. Doe is an ordinary taxpaying citizen. He makes $3,000 a year, has a wife and a child. Maybe your budget is far different from his, but his may give an idea of what's in store for you.

He figured that counting such things as the gasoline tax he would pay Uncle Sam, directly and indirectly, $42.10 in an average year under present rates. Then he looked at the new schedules proposed by the house ways and means committee on which house debate may open tomorrow and calculated they would raise the bill to $129.21.

Our ordinary taxpayer figured his income tax first. He still would get a $2,000 "head of family" exemption and a $400 credit for the younger, but the pending bill would assess a 5 per cent surtax on him. That would raise his income tax $5.40 paid this year to $48.40 to be paid next March.

Then he discovered new taxes on a lot of things he was planning to buy.

Other Boosts
That new fur-trimmed coat for the Missus, expected to cost $100, will be taxed 10 per cent of retail price, or $10. Other new taxes he figured according to the prices he expected to pay included: 50 cents on a new toaster; $2.50 on a camera; $1 for sporting goods; $1 for a new traveling bag; $5 on a musical instrument for Junior; 50 cents on soft drinks (300 nickel bottles); and $5 on jewelry. Except for soft drinks, which are to be taxed 1/6 of a cent per ordinary bottle, these taxes are figured at 10 per cent of manufacturers' price.

Some regular items in his budget also may be taxed heavier. For instance, he ordinarily buys a half dozen packs of playing cards a year, the tax on which would rise from 68 to 78 cents. The three gallons of liquor he buys an annum for himself and friends will cost $12 in taxes instead of $9. A set of tires and tubes for his car will include $2.40 in taxes instead of $1.15. That new refrigerator he wants to buy will carry a tax of $10 instead of $5.50. Because the committee plans to start the amusement tax on tickets costing more than 9 cents instead of over 20 cents, Mr. Doe figured this bill would jump from $3.64 to $4.68.

New Car Taxes

The only taxes in Mr. Doe's ordinary budget that would be the same would be $6 for beer, $3.25 for cigarettes, and $7.50 for gasoline.

There are a lot more wrinkles to the tax bill as it stands now. For instance, if Doe went to buy a new car, the federal tax would be 7 per cent instead of 3 1/2 per cent. Taxes have been boosted in the proposal also on radios, phonographs, wines, certain business machines, metal signs, matches, certain optical equipment, bill boards, radio programs, bowling alleys, cabarets, certain uber products, commercial (not household) washing machines, pinball machines and safe deposit boxes.

Campaign Without Water

with his artillery shot "M" into the ground and burned it down completely.

Water Is Priceless
A field flask with drinking water, tea, or coffee today in the east is worth more than anything that can happen to you.

That comrade begs as though he wanted to borrow 100 marks from you. Or he offers you other luxuries in exchange, a whole trying pan full of butter, one dozen eggs, cigarettes—whatever he just happens to have.

The other day one lad offered for one field flask full of tea one pair of boots which he had found abandoned in Soviet barracks.

The loveliest vehicles in this war are those from whose tops protrude little stovepipes—the field kitchens. Not on account of the pork rusk which they offer you, and not on account of the pea soup, but solely on account of their tea.

In peacetime the field kitchens usually heat their kettles for drinkables twice a day, once for the morning, once for the evening coffee. In this war they haven't become cold for a single hour. One can come to them of mornings at 4, or nights at 11, during the pause between skirmishes, or in the midst of the din of battle. Their kettles will grow cold for the first time only after the last shots of this campaign have been fired.

Two Cups of Water
Yesterday for the first time in a long while I was privileged really to wash and shave myself. It was a veritable dissipation indulged in with that water. Why, I had two whole drinking cups full of water for it!

The other day in an abandoned villa of four Soviet commissars we ran into a tremendous booty: we didn't take the photograph, not the books and cutglass candelabra, but five empty wine bottles. Then one comrade panhandled his way up and down our materials avenue and "touched" the field kitchens. Each filled one bottle for him.

Unfortunately the fifth bottle sustained a crack from hot tea. The comrade was roundly blamed for acting so carelessly—why didn't he warm up the bottle slowly?

We yearn for much—for example for one hour without the din of battle, for one stretch of summer landscape that doesn't smell of conflagration and death, for one walk through a street of peace with children's laughter and clinking of glasses reaching your ear from a jolly window. Yet all this becomes threadbare and infinitesimal compared with the yearning for the great water, for water for drinking, for bathing, for nonsensical wallowing.

For: This war is the driest of all wars!

Fatally Burned Cleaning Auto

Pittsburgh, July 29 (AP)—While cleaning the family automobile, Charles Chambers, Jr., 16, of Reserve Township was fatally burned Monday by flaming gasoline.

The coroner's office said the boy was using a brush to clean the motor with gasoline. A metal band around the brush contacted the motor, causing a spark which ignited the gas.

The boy's father, Charles Sr., was critically burned when he tried to put out the flames that enveloped his son.

An incredible maze of tunnels has been bored into the rocky hills about Chungking, China, for air raid precaution.

Burglar, Trapped, Fatally Wounded

Pittsburgh, July 29 (AP)—A husky negro burglar was fatally wounded Sunday while battling two policemen who had trapped and handcuffed him in an East End cellar.

The negro was first shot by another patrolman who gave chase as the man fled from a cafe with a shopping bag containing several bottles of whisky and some shirts.

Only slightly injured he was cornered in the cellar and manacled. Then he swung at the officers, grabbing the blackjack of one of them. In the melee the other officer was accidentally wounded by his own gun and bitten on the right shoulder by the prisoner. A shot in the abdomen subdued the prisoner and he died in a hospital a half-hour later.

Yanks Who Fled Germany, Return To U.S.; Reenlist

Jersey City, N. J., July 29 (AP)—Two American ambulance corps drivers who escaped from German guard by diving from a train window and tramping four days through France on a diet of bread and water returned to America Monday—and promptly volunteered for service in Africa with another corps unit.

Within one hour after they arrived aboard the American export liner Excalibur the two—James W. Stewart, 35, of Oneonta, N. Y., and Thomas O. Greenough, 30, of Profit, Va.—had signed up to sail for Suez Aug. 20 to serve with Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Free French forces.

Stewart and Greenough said their break for freedom was made partly from pique at overhearing German guards aboard the train, which was carrying them and 19 others of the ambulance corps who had survived the sinking of the Egyptian liner Zamzam, ridicule the possibility of escape. Their comrades subsequently were released.

British Sub Captain Tells Of Sinking Eight Axis Ships

Alexandria, Egypt, July 29 (De-layed)—(AP)—A British submarine captain, just returned from Mediterranean operations, described today the sinking of an Axis convoy off Crete as "knocking them off like wooden ducks in a shooting gallery."

Ordered to frustrate German and Italian efforts to reinforce Aegean Islands, the captain came back with a "sunk" score of five caiques, two schooners, one big Italian tanker and one troop transport.

The captain was at sea about two weeks. His detailed account of action went something like this:

"Sliding through the Aegean the submarine first came upon a convoy of two troopships escorted by a destroyer and an aircraft. The ships were loaded with Italian soldiers probably on their way to Piraeus, Port of Athens.

"Asheans' Miss

"We immediately fired torpedoes at each of the ships, one about 4,000 tons, the other 2,500 tons. We hit, and undoubtedly sank the largest, which, I believe, was the City of Tripoli. The destroyer depth-charged us for nearly an hour as we rapidly submerged, but their 'ash-cans' didn't fall close enough.

(Lloyd's register lists no City of Tripoli, but there is a 2,933-ton passenger vessel named Clitta di Tripoli.)

aboard which there were 30 Germans, the captain said.

Through the periscope about two days later, the captain sighted a large caique and a schooner, both flying the Swastika and loaded with troops. Coming to the surface the submarine opened fire and shelled for six minutes, setting both ships ablaze. About 100 German soldiers leaped for rubber boats.

Some time later the submarine ran into her first night action. A convoy of three caiques and one schooner was sighted between the Greek mainland and Crete carrying troops, fuel oil and ammunition, the captain said.

Shoot Germans

"We sank them one by one, knocking them off like wooden ducks in a shooting gallery by gunfire under brilliant early-morning moonlight," the captain said. "There was some light fire from a gun aboard one of the caiques, but all their shells burst miles from us."

The submarine moved alongside one of the caiques before sinking her.

One of the submarine officers boarded the caique. He spoke German. While he asked questions one German soldier attempted to hurl a hand grenade, but he was shot dead. Another German raised his rifle and he, too, was shot down. The Germans were ordered to abandon the caique and then clambered into a rubber raft.
